Port's Mullato Bayou permit placed on hold

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Bureau of Marine Resources deputy director Joe Gill reported a land designation change for the Mullato Bayou was placed on hold Thursday, to allow time for the gathering of more information.

Gill stated Larry Louis, chief of the bureau's wetlands division, made the recommendation upon concerns for future usage of the area should it be industry designated.

The panel asked that plans for the area be submitted by the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, who is petitioning for the land designation change.

What initially appeared as a concern for the water temperature of the effluent discharge proposed by Calgon Carbon Corporation has now turned into a wider reaching interest.

According to Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission director Harold "Buz" Olsen, G.E. Plastics Company purchased several hundred acres of adjoining land which is earmarked for future expansion.

Down the center of this newly acquired property is the present pipe corridor which empties into a section of the Mullato Bayou approximately a quarter-mile from the proposed areadesignated for industrial use.

Olsen continued, "The Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) said this (the proposed preservation designated area) is a better area

Political signs

Placement policy varies; many unwanted

BY JANET MCQUEEN

It's a sign of the times—in particular, election time. The posters, fliers and yard signs asking for your vote in the fall elections will soon be crowding intersections, vacant lots, trees and power company poles.

Many of the above signs will be placed illegally.

Coast Electric Power Association does not have a written policy, but manager of administrative services George Sullivan said the company discourages the practice for the safety of their employees.

"Signs create a hazardous condition for an employee who has to climb a pole to restore power to an area," said Sullivan.

He related a recent phone call from Harrison County, where a resident complained when he granted Coast Electric permission to erect a pole on his property, he did not intend for it to become billboard space for various advertisements.

South Central Bell telephone policy does have a definite policy prohibiting the placement of signs on their poles, according to a spokesman.

Telephone repairmen climb the poles with spurs, which could glance off the protruding nails, possibly causing one to slip.

"People do not realize the hazard this presents to a repairman climbing at night or in the rain," he said.

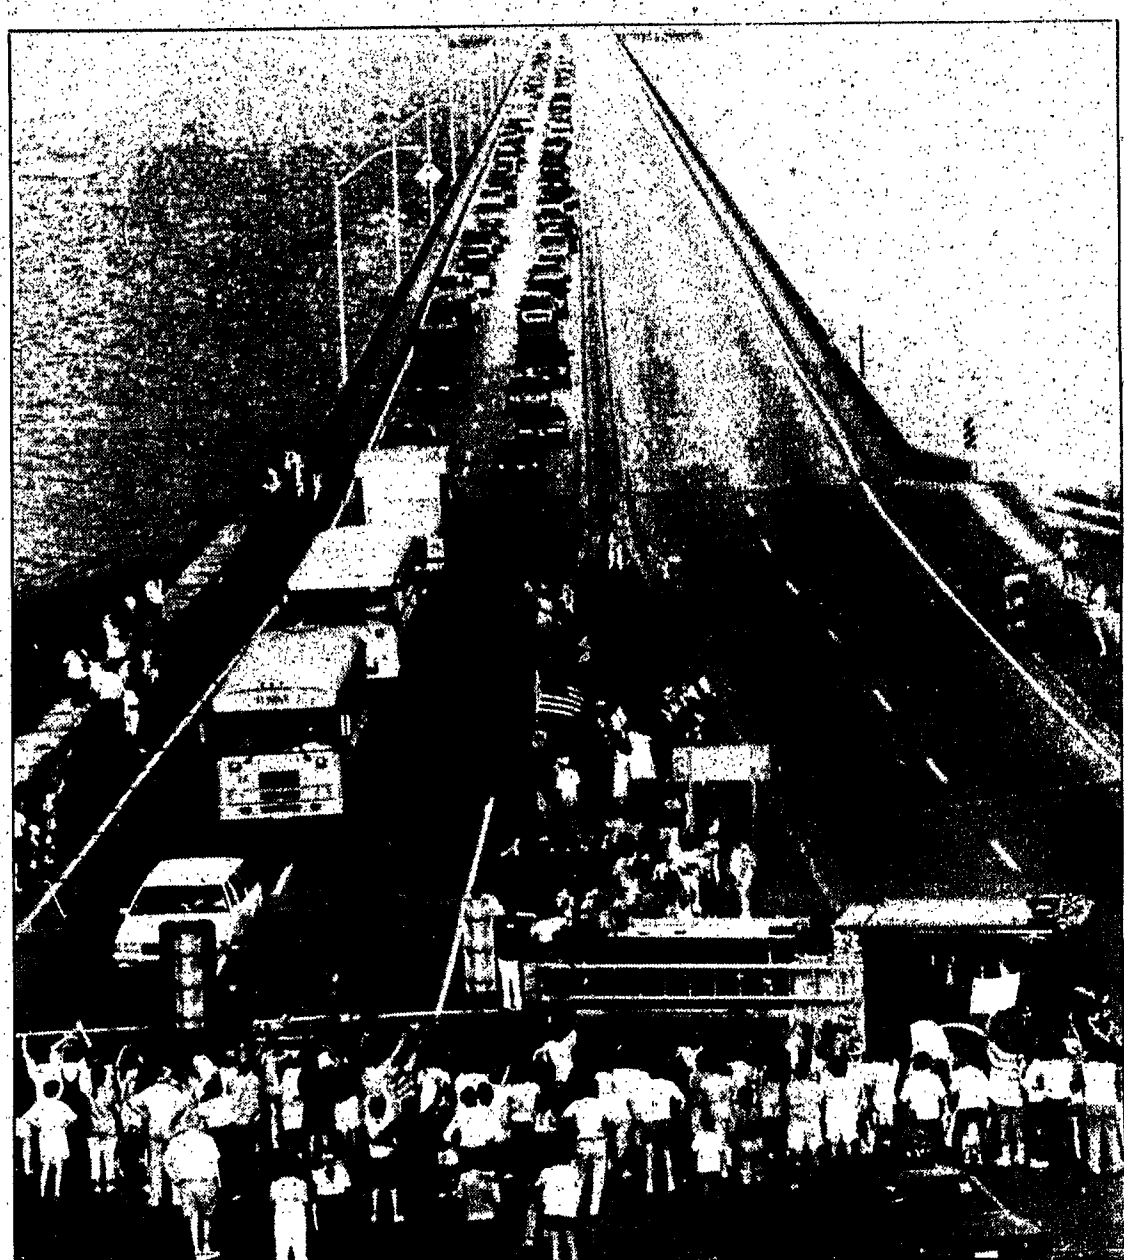

The removal of signs and nails interferes with the rapid restoration of telephone service, he said.

Mississippi Power Company spokesman Buddy Eller said although, the company does not have the manpower to police 6,000-plus miles of poles, it forbids the placement of signs for a number of reasons.

A primary concern is the safety of Mississippi Power linemen as they climb the poles, while the possible liability in tampering with the company's property is also involved.

"Although we can't reason with the woodpeckers, people should know better," said Eller.

Waveland shelter manager arrested

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Waveland animal shelter director, Diane Griffin was arrested and charged with embezzlement of city funds Friday, according to Waveland Police Department Investigator Jimmy Varnell.

Varnell said he was called Friday by Mayor Stella Frilot and asked to investigate discrepancies found by city bookkeeper Debbie Conrvey in the shelter's daily collections.

He added, upon further inquiry, Griffin was charged with the misappropriation of the shelter's collections.

Frilot stated, "Recent changes at the animal shelter included a system for accounting to the city for all financial expenditures.

"The system, coupled with alert reporting by the city's new book keeper (Conrvey) uncovered irregularities which were turned over to police authorities for appropriate action."

Griffin had been hired by the city as the shelter manager several months ago when Frilot dissolved the animal shelter commission.

Conrvey began working as the city bookkeeper June 24.

Griffin was taken to the Hancock County Justice Facility and placed on a $10,000 bond. She is presently out of jail on that bond.

Park director's slot to be left unfilled

BY TRACI BONNEY

County supervisors said Thursday they don't plan to replace resigning parks and recreation director Hilda Bourg immediately.

Bourg, whose resignation is effective August 15, told the board during a workshop meeting, "Don't think I have something against any of you; it's just that I'm getting too old to go out there and —"

"Don't say that word," board president Ronald Cuevas interrupted.

Bourg chuckled, then continued, "—and it's just getting to be too much to do."

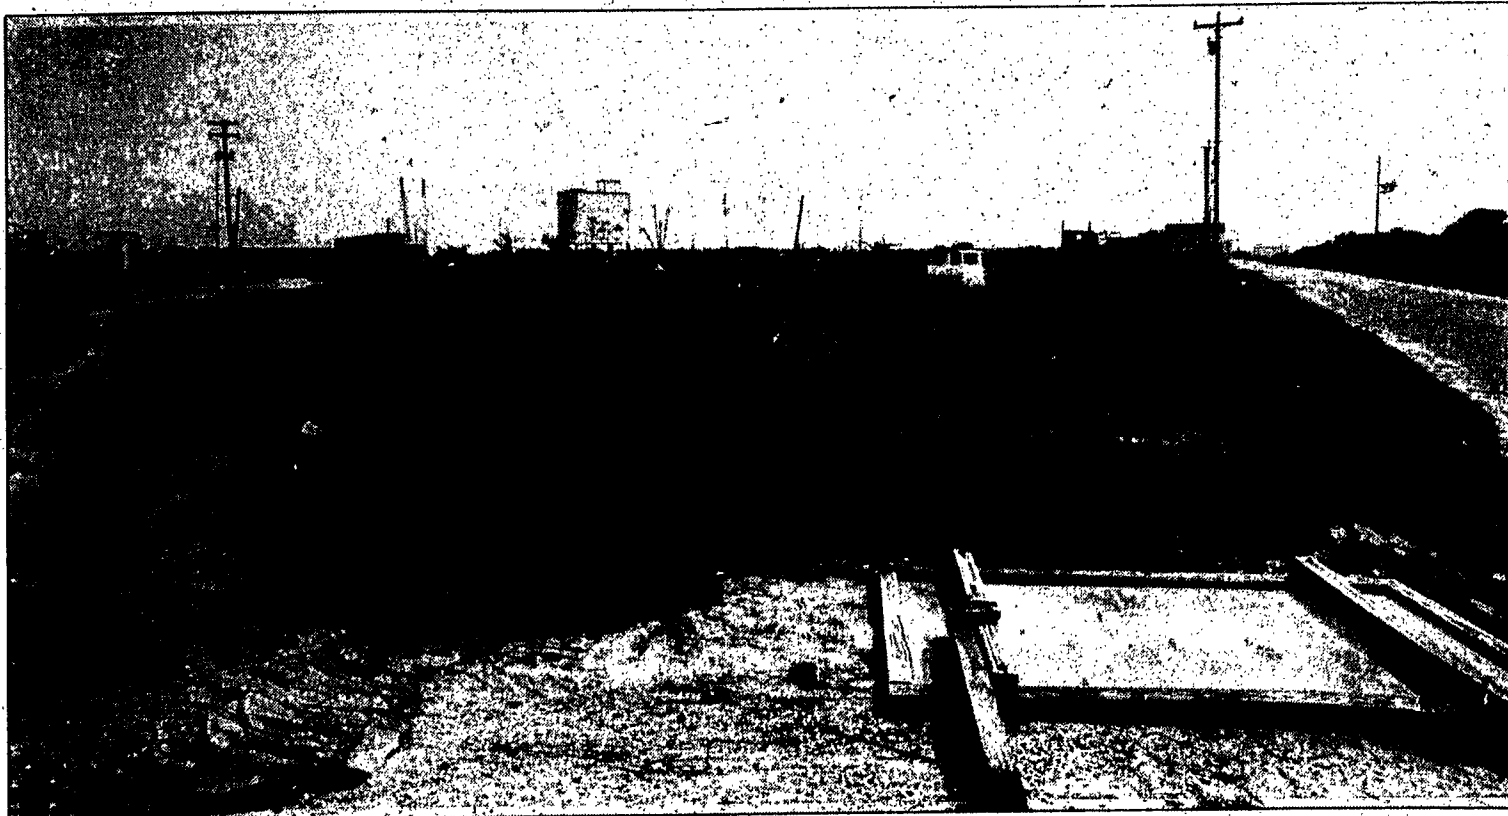

In the course of her job, Bourg has done a large amount of grounds maintenance and beautification in the county parks.

When the park commissioners asked what the supervisors planned to do after Bourg leaves, Cuevas said they didn't plan to replace her immediately. He told the commissioners county maintenance superintendent Sam Cuevas will assume maintenance and other responsibilities for the county civic center until a new parks director is hired.

In various financial matters, the county school superintendent, the Mosquito Control Board and the county's two public defenders requested money.

Clearing out

Al Bishop of Bayou Caddy Inc. reported Thursday that the company officially broke ground to begin clearing land for a proposed dock-side gaming facility at Bayou Caddy. The company is clearing the land for engineering purposes, but plans to start construction as soon as it receives State Gaming Commission approval, which Bishop said he is confident the company will receive. He said he and his associates expect to open Bayou Caddy Casino later this year, "maybe New Year's Eve." (Photo by T.H. "Doc" Toups)

School board

Approves faulty work repairs at Gulfview

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The Hancock County School Board gave approval Tuesday for the district to proceed with minimal repairs to the Gulfview kindergarten classroom.

The repairs are to correct the most obvious problems, such as a leaking roof, which the board claims resulted from faulty workmanship by King Construction Company in 1988 when the classroom addition was built.

Board attorney Joseph "Jody" Gex advised the board to approve the repairs saying, "The district has an obligation to minimize damage."

"You can demand reimbursement for the repairs later."

Gex said he was waiting on some final information before proceeding with a law suit against the company.

Assistant superintendent Eddie Danzey told the board, "I believe we are holding the ten percent retainer fee, and the bonding company was notified (of the board's intent to sue) a year ago."

Gex added that he believed King Construction Company had "gone under" but that the district had never released the bonding company, so there was a good chance for compensation.

Shuttle engine damaged during ground testing

A developmental Space Shuttle main engine sustained extensive internal damage while it was undergoing ground testing on Wednesday at Stennis Space Center.

The test failure occurred at approximately 4 seconds after engine start when engine sensors detected abnormal operating conditions.

Ground-control systems terminated the test immediately, and there was no apparent damage to the test stand on which the engine was mounted.

The exact nature and extent of damage to the engine, as well as the cause of the incident, are being investigated. However, from initial external observations, the damage appears to be largely internal to the engine. A team of engineers with NASA and the prime contractor for the main engine, Rocketdyne Division of Rockwell International, have begun gathering all pertinent test data for analysis.

The engine which was being tested is a developmental engine, and its configuration is different from engines used in the Shuttle flight program.

"Failures such as this do not occur from time to time in the aggressive ground-test program that we've always maintained, and especially when we're testing advanced design components. However, it has been over two years since we've had such an incident and during that time, we've accumulated over 10,000 seconds of engine operation, with 257 engine starts," said Jerry Smelser, manager of the Space Shuttle Main Engine Projects Office at the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala.

"The engine, unit number 0215, had been tested extensively in the past. It had been run 15 times prior to the aborted test, with an accumulated run time of 5,255 seconds, or approximately 87.6 minutes."

Four sentenced in vehicular burglaries

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

Four Hancock County young men were sentenced to pay fines and restitution, do community service, and received suspended jail sentences in Bay St. Louis and Waveland Municipal Courts last week in connection with a rash of vehicular burglaries.

Hancock County and City of Bay St. Louis Prosecutor John Gemin said all four had entered guilty pleas in both courts. All four each received a fine of $100 plus court costs, 10 days community service and 30 days suspended sentence on each count in Bay and Waveland courts, plus restitution.

In an appearance before Municipal Judge George Lipscomb on Wednesday, Robert Michael Butch, 20, received cost of court and a fine of $137.50, was ordered to pay $175.64 restitution, do 10 days of community service and received a 30-day suspended jail sentence.

Christopher M. Perrone, 19, court costs and fine $137.50, 10 days community service and 30 days suspended jail sentence.

James Michael Lagasse, 19, court costs and fine $962.50, restitution $2,070.99, 70 days community service and 210 days suspended jail sentence.

Gary Joseph Ponthieux, 19, court costs and fine $137.50, 10 days community service and 30 days suspended jail sentence.

Waveland Municipal Court was conducted by substitute Judge Lee Klein on Thursday night with Butch receiving a fine and court costs of $412.50, restitution $845.00, 30 days community service and 90-day suspended jail sentence.

Perrone, fines and court costs $550.00, restitution $629.50, 40 days community service and 120 days suspended jail sentence.

Lagasse, fines and court costs $1,375.00, restitution $1,437.00, 100 days of community service and 300 days suspended jail sentence.

Ponthieux, fines and court costs $412.50, restitution $62.50, 30 days community service and 90 days suspended jail sentence.

The four, along with a juvenile who was turned over to the Hancock County Youth Court, were arrested earlier this month in connection with a rash of burglaries involving mostly emergency vehicles.

The ring was broken when Diamondhead Security Chief Richard Pate foiled an attempted theft by getting the tag number of a suspicious vehicle in vicinity of Diamondhead's maintenance yard.

An investigation by Diamondhead Security followed, along with Hancock County Criminal Investigator Nathan Hoda, Bay St. Louis Investigator Gus Aime Jr. and Waveland Investigator James Varnell which led to the arrests.

PRESCRIPTION FORGERY

Investigator Glen Strong, director of the Hancock County Metropolitan Narcotics Task Force, reported that a Waveland resident was arrested Thursday on a drug-related charge.

Strong said John David Green, 36, of 1107 Waveland Avenue, was arrested and charged with two counts of prescription forgery. He has been released from the Hancock County jail under $3,000 bond.

According to Strong, task force agents executed a search warrant at Green's house, where they found at least one partially completed prescription form, several medicine bottles and other prescription drug paraphernalia. The prescription Green allegedly forged is for Dilaudid, which Strong said is a pain medicine for patients in the last stages of cancer.

The case is under investigation and further charges are possible, Strong said.

Agent Bill Pepperman, the Waveland Police Department's representative on the task force, is in charge of the investigation.

Both men are in the Hancock County jail under $5,000 bond each, Strong added.

Agent Terry Eley, representing the Bay St. Louis Police Department on the task force, is in charge of the investigation.

Assisting Eley in the arrests were Agent Bill Pepperman, Bay St. Louis Patrolman E.J. Favre and Officer Shane Corr, who used canine officer Champ during the course of the arrest.

James D. Reynolds

Reynolds contends for District 2 seat

James D. "Bucky" Reynolds, 43, has announced that he is a Democratic candidate for District 2 supervisor.

He is a Bay High School graduate and attended William Carey College. His former occupations include owner of Reynolds Grocery Store, salesman for Life of Georgia Insurance and school district employee. His current occupations include school bus driver for the Hancock County school district and employee at Young's Restaurant in Slidell, La.

Reynolds is married to Dora Reynolds and they have four children and two grandchildren. He is a member of First Southern Baptist Church in Pearlport.

He is in favor of attracting new industries to the area, limited police presence at Hancock High School, better road and ditch maintenance, upgrading sanitation facilities, more and better maintenance, improving the unit system, and honest government. "I believe government can and should be run fairly for all people."

He is opposed to tax increases and the testing of solid rocket motor fuel at the John C. Stennis Space Center. "I am 100 percent against anything that endangers or threatens the quality of life for our people."

Most of all, Reynolds said, he is in favor of "doing my best. That's my only promise, to do my best in every phase of the job I'm elected to do."

Cowand announces candidacy for second supervisor term

District 3 Supervisor Lisa LoBon Cowand recently announced that she is seeking a second term in office.

In 1985, Cowand became the first woman elected to hold office in Bay St. Louis when she was voted to the city council. She served as council president in 1986.

Cowand, 35, attended Loyola University and Louisiana State University Dental School, where she received certification as a dental assistant.

She is an active member of the Hancock County Sand Beach Committee and Gulf Regional Planning Commission, a past president of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club, charter member of the Bay-Waveland Jaycees, board member of Mental Retardation Region VII, the Magnolias and Mississippi Women in Municipal Government.

She is married to Norman L. Cowand, a Mississippi State University engineering graduate who is employed at General Electric. They have three children, twin sons Norman and Brian, 10, and a daughter Lauren, 9.

Cowand's goals for her second term include working toward a more efficient system of road maintenance until a four-year plan can be implemented to pave all the county's dirt roads, with bus routes as a top priority, and striving for a solution to the county's landfill dilemma, including promoting recycling programs.

She stated, "I will continue to pursue avenues that will further enhance our industrial development and create more jobs for residents."

"Two and a half years ago when I was elected to my present position, it was noted that Hancock County the fastest growing county populationwise in the state. However, at the time we were still not getting our share of the job market. Today this trend is being reversed."

"Hancock County now has the lowest unemployment ratio in the state, Hancock County is not only a great place to live, it is a great place to work and live."

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Cindy Vernon, executive director of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and her staff have done a very fine job in sprucing up the new chamber office.

The chamber is now located in Colonial Plaza next to the Peoples Bank, the old Security Savings & Loan location.

The new facility provides ample parking, and the building's owner has done a complete paint job inside and outside.

I would suggest you stop by the chamber's new office and take a look for yourself at the new location.

Keep up the good work, Cindy!

Next Saturday night the Krewe of Nereids will sponsor its second annual family fish fry at the Hancock County Civic Center, Longfellow Road.

The fish fry is from 4 to 8 p.m. for a donation of $5 per person and will include fried catfish, coleslaw and hush puppies.

Take-outs will be available.

There will also be a dance beginning at 8 p.m. at $10 per person to the music of the Pat Murphy Band.

Tickets will be available at the door or in advance at Waveland Drug Store, Waveland and at Bay Crafts on North Beach Boulevard.

The Krewe of Nereids plays a vital role in Hancock County, and I am hoping there will be a large attendance at the benefit fish fry and benefit dance.

I know it is early in the year to think about Mardi Gras, but as most of you know, the Krewe of Nereids brings us a big parade each year two Sundays before Mardi Gras.

Representatives of the U.S. Corps of Engineers and Pearl River Basin Development District, the director and a commissioner of McLeod Park, and a Hancock County supervisor discussed what might be done to alleviate the erosion described as "a terrible loss to the park."

The Bay St. Louis City Council Tuesday approved a resolution to advertise the city's intent to join the Waveland Wastewater Authority. If you think that next February, or whenever it is you pay your taxes, that you will have along, hard kick to make at the amount with which you are assessed in the county, the best thing you can do is to go around to the chancery clerk's office and see how the assessor has you listed up. If the amount is too large or too small, you have the right to complain, and that complaint will be heard by the board of supervisors at a special meeting next month.

In September, Labor Day weekend, we are asking that members of the Hancock and West Harrison County communities remember to support the Telephone Pledge Center.

As pledge center coordinator, your personal pledge and commitment to this cause will be greatly appreciated. Remember, this donation stays in our communities.

If verification is needed, please contact Lynda Raines, district director, at the MDA office, (601) 982-8514.

Because of your generosity in the past, the association has been able to continue providing services to those individuals afflicted with muscular dystrophy. This year's pledge center is Charlie Henderson Ford, Inc., (601) 982-8514.

Frilot doesn't deserve Weidman's constant criticism

To the Editor,

Although I am a newcomer to Waveland, having only lived here four years, I try to take part and am interested in our city.

I have noticed in all the aldermen's meetings, one alderman is constantly against Mayor Frilot. No matter what the issue is, he opposes her.

She is trying to improve our image, and as far as City Hall, it is now a place to be proud of. Although the alderman is not in my district, if the people are smart, they would start checking on why he is so opposed to the mayor to do good for our city.

I'd say to our mayor, continue the excellent job you are doing. I know the people are behind you 100 percent.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

Dale to receive stiff competition in race

State Insurance Commissioner George Dale has quietly built a $100,000 war chest from political contributions, including a nice chunk from the insurance industry, the past few years.

But Dale says his nestegg is nothing like the kind of dough some of his fellow commissioners raise in nearby states.

Still, it was a certainly last week that a lot is going to be heard out on the campaign stump in this year's elections about Dale's fund raising policy, at least from the man who last week became the Republican nominee for the Insurance Commissioner job.

David Lee Anderson, who owns an insurance agency in Tupelo, making his maiden voyage as a political candidate, was unopposed for the GOP nomination, and is expected to take on Dale, the 16-year Democratic occupant of the insurance post, in the November general election.

Dale must still dispose of a token opponent in the Sept. 17 Democratic primary, unemployed artist David Barry White, 26, a recent graduate of Mississippi College with a master's degree in art. White should pose no problem for Dale.

The 46-year-old Anderson, who says he got into the race because he felt the "consumer deserves more help than he is getting" from the Dale-run state Department of Insurance, made clear that he will take sharp issue with Dale over acceptance of contributions from insurance industry PACs.

"I don't want any contributions from insurance companies. I'd rather have contributions from people who live in Mississippi," said Anderson, who has been an insurance agent for the past 19 years. "I'm saying I would turn down insurance company PAC money."

He would not, however, draw the line on contributions from insurance agents in the state. "After all, they're consumers, too," Anderson said.

Dale, in a candidate report of his "George Dale Reception Committee" filed January 6, 1990, had listed contributions of $51,841 during the previous year. In the report he itemized seven $1,000 contributions and one $600 contribution from insurance companies or insurance PACs.

He had also reported in January, 1990 contributions of $44,874 to his "George Dale Campaign Trust" fund, that amount shown as transferred from the Reception Committee. His January 4, 1991 contributions report for the "George Dale Reception Committee" showed receipts of $42,953 for the previous year, but said that none was above the $500 threshold.

Significantly, in 1989, Dale is shown to have paid himself $44,874 from the "George Dale Reception Committee," and in 1990, he is shown having received $14,985 from the "George Dale Campaign Trust."

Dale said that his personal use of his political contributions went for such expenses as maintaining a car and all expenses for trips which he did not consider official travel. "For instance, I would use this money for trips to the Watermelon Festival at Mize and the Neshoba County Fair," he said.

Any money from political contributions that he uses for personal reasons, he said, is reported as personal income "and I pay tax on it."

His Certified Public Accountant, Dale said, closely checks to see "every cent" is properly and lawfully accounted for.

Dale defended accepting contributions from insurance companies and insurance PACs. "Es like not to take money from anybody I regulate, but if I didn't, it would have to come from my friends or from my own pocket," he declared.

However, Dale added, "I limit what I receive from anyone in the industry." Someone else in his position, he said, "could raise a ton of money if he wanted to. I don't want to do it."

In neighboring Louisiana, a successful candidate for insurance commissioner raised $2.2 million, Dale said, while a temporary of his in Florida has banked $1 million in his campaign treasury. It might also be noted that the Louisiana commissioner was recently sentenced to 25 years in prison on corruption charges.

As for Anderson, Dale charged that the Tupelo insurance agent was disgruntled because the Insurance Depart-

Lizana is candidate for District 3 supervisor

Howard Lizana

Howard Lizana of White Cypress has announced his intention to run for District 3 supervisor.

Lizana is a graduate of Kiln High School. He attended Pearl River Junior College and the Hinds Junior College vocational school for barbers. He currently owns a barber shop in Picayune.

He worked in construction for 12 years, where he was responsible for hiring workers and obtaining equipment to do various jobs.

Lizana, 52, is a lifelong resident of the White Cypress community. He is the son of Clarence and Ethel Lizana, and is married to the former Elaine Deschamp, the daughter of Verina Deschamp and the late Purvis Deschamp.

Howard and Elaine Lizana have three children, Danny, Desiree and Dennis, and three grandchildren, Marissa, Kyle and Rheanne.

He is a member of St. Matthew Catholic Church in White Cypress, where he plays guitar and leads the church choir, and a member of the Knights of Columbus.

Lizana said he is seeking the District 3 supervisor's office because he wants to "look out for Hancock County's number one natural resource — its people."

He said he will work to bring in more industry; to use county tax dollars wisely; not to raise taxes; to expand the county's recreation offerings; to help establish and maintain a road improvement program that will pave dirt roads and resurface existing paved roads; to encourage the county's youth to get good educations and learn trade skills; and to help better the county's people.

Mauffray announces bid for Hancock County coroner

James Donald Mauffray of Bay St. Louis has announced his candidacy for coroner of Hancock County.

Mauffray, who is retired, was a medical technician with the rank of T/4 Sergeant in the Army during World War II. He routinely had duty in the emergency room where he attended many accident, stabbing, burning, wreck, drowning, shooting, etc., victims, while stationed in Germany. He administered blood plasma, I.V.'s, oxygen, and did some suturing while on C.Q. (Charge of Quarters).

In addition to his service in the Army Medics, Mauffray also worked for a total of seven years in both Gulfport and Biloxi VA Hospitals, where he again witnessed many deaths while employed as psychiatric nursing assistant and a medical nursing assistant. Mauffray also was office manager/relief administrator for five years at Hancock General Hospital.

Other work experience includes teaching school under the Government Systematic Training and Rehabilitation (STAR) Program at the Old Dedeaux School in North Hancock County. The students were 16-60 year-old dropouts. Subjects taught were old and new math, phonics, English, reading, writing, personal hygiene, etc. Many students went on to attend their GED diplomas.

Mauffray is the 11th of 12 children of the late Claude D. and Bessie Garriga Mauffray of the Fenton Community. His liv-

His deceased siblings are Ulman, John C. (Peck) and Woodrow Mauffray, also Mrs. Verdie Brumfield and Mrs. Gloria Horlock.

He is married to the former Charlotte Fletcher Nelson of Warrenton, Va. who is retired director of nursing at Hancock General Hospital. They have two sons, one daughter, and nine grandchildren.

Mauffray states, considering his past experiences in the medical field, emergency medical, psychiatric and administrative, he is well-qualified and capable of serving as coroner of Hancock County.

Koenenn seeks coroner's post

Larry J. Koenenn Sr. of Kiln has announced his candidacy in the Democratic primary for the office of coroner of Hancock County.

Koenenn, 54, is a life-long resident of Hancock County and a 1955 graduate of Dedeaux High School.

Koenenn has worked at American Marine shipyard in New Orleans, La. for 22 years. He has worked as a car salesman at Frank Hille Chevrolet-Oldsmobile and is currently employed with Riemann Insurance Company.

He feels that his experience in working with the public and his knowledge of the county as a whole will enable him to serve properly and be a dedicated coroner for the people of Hancock County.

Koenenn has lived in the Dedeaux-Kiln area all of his life.

Announces For Hancock County Supervisor District 2

Age: 43

Party: Democrat

Marital Status: Married to Dora Reynolds; four children, two grandchildren.

Education: Graduate of Bay High School, Bay St. Louis. Junior at William Carey.

Member of First Southern Baptist Church: Pearlington.

Past Occupation: Owner of Reynolds Grocery Store. Salesman for Life of Georgia Insurance. School district employee.

Current Occupation: Bus driver for Hancock County school district. Employee of Young's Restaurant - Slidell.

Platform: Opposes testing of Solid Rocket Fuel at Stennis Space Center. "I am 100 percent against anything that endangers or threatens the quality of life for our people."

FOR: Attracting new industries to area. "I will work with my fellow supervisors to bring new business to the Hancock County area and do so best to make sure those businesses hire local workers first."

FOR: Limited police presence at Hancock High. "As a bus driver I can see the need for traffic control at Hancock High. I want to work with the county sheriff and the Superintendent of Education to have a deputy in place at Hancock High in the morning and evening to ensure the safety of our children to and from school."

FOR: "Sanitation facilities. "Dumping hours at the Pearl River and Leetown need to be expanded. They're an earlier and closer later to take advantage of daylight savings time. The Leetown dumping station is an eyesore. It needs to be regulated, maintained and manned. Leetown is a beautiful area and deserves better."

FOR: Better road and ditch maintenance. "I ride these roads on my bus route and I know what it is to come to a stop sign and have your vision blocked by overgrown brush. Sometimes it's private residences that are responsible but this problem needs to be addressed. Limbs overhead are a big problem, too."

FOR: More and better maintenance. "If you're going to have better roads and cleaner ditches you need better equipment. As a resident of Pearlinton I never see road equipment, hardly ever. It must either be in the shop all the time or it is being used somewhere else. But traveling to Leetown and other areas I'm told they don't see the equipment either."

FOR: A full-time, caring supervisor. "If elected I will hold no other job except that of county supervisor. I'll be available full-time for the people of my district."

AGAINST: Tax increases. "I'm against tax increases because I know how hard it is on low-income people to pay the taxes we already have."

FOR: Honest government. "I believe government can and should be run fairly for all people."

FOR: Improvement of Unit System. "I think the Unit System can be made to operate more efficiently and better meet the needs of the people. It's the system we voted for but it hasn't worked for us as well as it could. Personally, I voted against the measure but it's the system we have now and we need to make the best of it."

FOR: "Doing my best. That's my only promise, to do my best in every phase of the job I'm elected to do."

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

Women cry foul

For the last handful of years, one of the painful statistics on African Americans is that black females outnumber black males by well over a million. Severely aggravating that bleak arithmetic is the seeming eagerness of black males to swell the population of our prisons.

I won't even bother to mention the destructive, insidious implications of having innumerable other black males hooked by the barbs of the drug culture tangle.

Effectively, putting all the circumstances of drugs, crime and imprisonment together, black females outnumber black males by a substantially wider margin than the apparent hundreds of thousands over one million. It is a gross mismatch.

Now we have always known that females outnumber males on the general scene as well, but it is only in the last few days that we have come to know just how bad the disparity is.

Lo and behold, the most recent national figures give females, regardless of racial or ethnic origin, a 6.2 million numerical bulge over males throughout the United States.

To say the least, it is hardly a hardship for the U.S. males to be confronted by a female population which, at best, is insecure about the odds on landing a suitable partner for a lifetime commitment to love and companionship.

On the other hand, it has to be an excruciating situation for females, most of whom would like to be reasonably selective in choosing, if not the man of their dreams, at least the man who would make them proud in fathering their children, and who would give them affirmation and emotional comfort.

In other words, the badly distorted slogan of Budweiser beer becomes an undesirable truism in the plight of the U.S. female vis-a-vis male: "It doesn't get any better." That, of course, is a ringing endorsement of male situation and declares open season on exploiting the vulnerability of the female condition.

As it is already, females tend to complain about the scarcity of eligible males who show some promise of being marriage material in that they are somewhat mature, responsible, sensitive, considerate and affectionate.

"There's nobody out there!" is the most frequent female commentary on the deteriorating male/female situation.

It certainly is coldly unfair that life presents males with every opportunity of heterosexual companionship, but denies females the same opportunity simply by placing them in too much abundance upon the earth.

The mind-bending question triggered by this huge disparity in the female-male count are beginning to reach into every segment, vocation and condition of human life.

For one, how can every woman who so desired find a suitable mate without reaching out for a man who is already spoken for? Before women are out of the starting blocks, 6.2 million of them are automatically shut out by arithmetic.

Is the Church making life morally impossible for this huge throng by banning extramarital sex and polygamy, or does God simply expect the superfluous women to grin and bear it?

Can we answer these questions on moral grounds, or will we have to await a natural solution: until genetic management will make possible the determination of a baby's sex?

Shavuos is day of Confirmation

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column is written monthly by Lois Abrams, a member of the Jewish community of Diamondhead. She is a retired Hancock County public school teacher. Those who wish to attend Sabbath services at the Community Center in Diamondhead are invited to do so on Friday evenings at 7.

Shavuos is a holiday observed by Jewish people every spring. For Reformed Jews, this is the day of Confirmation.

In traditional Judaism, a young male will celebrate his bar mitzvah on the Sabbath closest to his 13th birthday. He is then considered old enough physically and emotionally to undertake the responsibilities of a Jewish life.

As the Reformed movement came into being, it stressed the equality of the sexes. Thus, the celebration of "Confirmation" in many ways replaced bar mitzvahs. However, today a boy or girl at 13 in a Reformed synagogue can be "called to the pulpit" for his bar or her bat mitzvah.

Still, most Reformed children continue their formal studies until Confirmation at the age of 16. Bar or bat mitzvahs are individual, while Confirmation is by a class and held only on Shavuos Day.

Shavuos commemorates God's giving his laws to Moses on Mount Sinai. There are differences of opinion about the origin and development of the laws. However, there is no difference of opinion about the centrality of the Commandments in Jewish history, nor should there be any doubt that at some moment in history, these revolutionary insights—which may

Members of the Armed Forces who served during Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm are being invited to visit Six Flags Over Texas free of charge during August as the theme park stages a "Lone Star Salute to the Troops."

Park president Bob Bennett said, "Now that most of the troops are back home, we want to say 'thanks' to them and give them a chance to get away from it all as our guests for a day in the park."

"As an added treat for youngsters in the military families," he said, "we will be bringing in the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles for nightly concerts Aug. 2 through Aug. 11."

Bennett said the offer of free admission will be good on every operating day during August except Saturdays.

The invitation is being extended to all active duty military, active reservists, National Guard members and those members of their immediate families who carry military identification cards.

Their children age nine and under, who do not carry ID cards, will also be admitted when accompanied by their card-holding parent.

Six Flags Over Texas will end daily operation for the summer on Aug. 25. The military offer will include the Labor Day weekend.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

You can "beef up" your menus without breaking the food budget and follow "healthful eating" guidelines as well these days, thanks to today's leaner beef and the attractively-priced offerings at our area supermarkets.

The beef coming to market today is 50 percent leaner than the beef of 25 years ago, so, you needn't take a "guilt trip" every time you fork up a slice of roast beef or beefsteak, for example.

Pork products also have "slimmed down," much less "fatty" than they were even a few years ago—but, oh, how tasty is that fat! So, stroll along the meat counters and choose a beef or pork cut for a treat!

For instance, an extra-good budget buy this week is beef round steak; sirloin tip roasts and steaks are also good buys. There's also ground round and ground chuck at good prices. In the pork section, Boston Butt pork roasts and loin center chops are standouts, along with thin breakfast chops and ribs. Whole pork shoulder picnics are also good buys.

And, since there are mini-mountains of juicy fresh fruits gracing the bins, I shall combine a couple of pears and apples—and lime—with pork chops for a tasty and quick dish, as in:

FRUITED PORK CHOPS
2 Tbsp. butter or margarine
1 medium red cooking apple, quartered and cored, sliced
1 medium to large pear, quartered, cored and sliced
1 lime, sliced thinly
1 Tbsp. brown sugar
6 fully cooked pork chops
Melt the butter in a large skillet over medium heat. Add the apple, pear and lime slices, and saute for a minute or so. Stir in the brown sugar and add salt to your taste, just a dash for sour cream, along with the vegetables and keep stirring away until all is heated through.

I make a bed of cooked noodles on a serving platter, slice the roast and arrange it over the noodles, and serve with the gravy. This serves 6 to 8 as a rule.

Fish fry, dance planned by Nereids at Civic Center

The Krewe of Nereids will host its second annual family fish fry Saturday, Aug. 3 from 4 to 8 p.m. at the Hancock County Civic Center on Longfellow Road in Bay St. Louis.

As always, the Krewe will be serving bountiful portions of fried catfish, hush puppies and coleslaw for $5 per person, according to a Nereids spokesman.

Take-out orders are available. Entertainment will begin at 8 p.m. and for $10 per person, you may boogie to the sounds of the versatile and multi-talented Pat Murphy Band. Tickets are available at the door. BYOB.

The evening will culminate with the drawing of the name of the winner of the $1,000 raffle.

Tickets are also available in advance at the Waveland Drug Store on Coleman Avenue and at Bay Crafts on North Beach Boulevard.

For more information, call Patsy Dubuisson, 467-0244.

Local karate winners advance to Jr. Olympics

Three students from Gulf Coast Shotokan Karate in Waveland will be traveling to Tallahassee, Fla. in August to in the Amateur Athletic Union National Karate Championships held July 3 through 7 in Orlando, Fla.

Ray Torrence, Ronald Storey and Brandon Weaver participate in the Junior Olympics. Ronald Storey, Ray Torrence and Brandon Weaver competed

Storey, 13, of Kiln, performed Tekki Shodan and placed second in the Union National intermediate 13- to 14-year-old division. He has been training for one year and 11 months. This year, Storey placed first in fighting in four tournaments.

Torrence, 10, of Bay St. Louis, placed third in fighting in the Union National competition, intermediate 9- to 10-year-old division. He has been training for one year and 10 months.

Torrence qualified for the August games following elimination from a field of 32. This year he has placed in the top three in kata, twice.

Weaver, 8, of Bay St. Louis, placed third in fighting at the Union National competition, novice 7- to 8-year-old division. He has been in training for one year and three months.

Weaver qualified after fighting six rounds in double elimination out of 27 competitors. This year he has competed three times and placed in the top three, twice.

Last year, both Storey and Torrence competed in this national tournament and qualified for the Junior Olympics. Rannie Ladner, Sensei (instructor) of the Waveland school, said, "The students have put in many long hours of training and have developed skills of concentration and self control as well as physical skills."

Ladner, who places emphasis on control of the mind as well as the body, commented, "Students who continue to be in trouble are not allowed to remain in the club.

"Karate is a self-defense art which is displayed through the state of mind."

"Discipline is emphasized in this club. Not only in the dojo (workout area) but in everyday life."

He concluded, "I've had several parents thank me for what karate has done for their kids physically, but more especially, that the self-control they learned carried over into their school work."

Ladner has 16 years of experience in Shotokan Karate. He is concerned with the image of violence associated with the martial art.

"It is not a violent sport. There is much more respect and self-control than is displayed in some other major sports."

"There is no place for anger or emotional outbursts here either from competitors or coaches."

Karate's goal, Ladner explains, "Is to strive to develop a spirit of humility in the students and give them self confidence that will help their attitude in all areas of their life."

"Once we are able to instill discipline into our lives, we have a tendency to be more successful."

"The serious study of karate is a study of life itself."

"A philosophy is taught, that if your hand goes forth, withhold your temper, and if your temper goes forth, withhold your hand."

The board approved the sale of a section of the bleachers at Hancock North Central Elementary School to Pearl River Central Touchdown Club for $1,500.

Superintendent Terrell Randolph stated that the main bleachers, seating up to 1,000 people, will be kept at the school.

Danzy commented to the board, "It's a good price."

The board approved a state change in purchasing procedures for the district following some discussion.

Previously the district could make purchases between $500 and $2,500 with a minimum of two quotes. The change brings the money amount up to $5,000.

Board member Lennette Nevaise expressed concern over not obtaining the best price through open bids.

Randolph assured her that it would not hurt the district because anytime the board felt a purchase should be bid upon they only had to vote to do so.

Board member Charles Ray Thomas asked that the superintendent inquire why the state had not as yet employed an additional attendance officer for the county.

Thomas held a copy of Mississippi State House Bill 30 which was passed this session by the legislature. The bill, he read, required that for each 2,000 students one attendance officer would be hired. Hancock County has approximately 3,700 students between the two school districts.

Bay St. Louis' new police chief, Frank McNeil, was an attendance officer for the county along with Yvonne Landry. McNeil resigned the position at the beginning of the year, and the state has not yet hired anyone to replace him.

Thomas asked that the district inquire if the state intended to hire a second attendance officer.

Randolph said he would investigate the situation.

In other business the board approved:

—to award the high school concession stand contract to the lowest bidder, Dillon Construction Company for $26,750;

—to accept the low quote from Chuck's Trim for reupholstering and padding to damaged bus seats;

—to place the principal house and property located at Hancock North Central Elementary School on the real estate market to be sold;

—to advertise for bids on vocational teaching supplies for Hancock Vocational-Technical School;

—to advertise for bids to replace the carpeting in the offices of Gulfview, Charles B. Murphy and Hancock North Central Elementary schools;

—to accept a $5,000 federal grant for the development of programs at the Vo-Tech Center to aid in the transition from high school to college;

—to accept donations totaling $1,400 from organizations and businesses for the purchase of software, videos and filmstrips for the science and math classes at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School;

—acceptance of state regional area forester's interpretation that the district receive only half the amount of the total contract for timber sales on a specific 16-section lot where rains prevented access to the timber;

—the resignations of Kevin R. Byrd, effective July 16, 1991, and Suzanne Buckley, effective July 14, 1991, as secondary teachers at Hancock High School;

—the resignation of Iris Hughes as the Chapter I Assistant at Gulfview Elementary School, due to medical reasons; —the employment of Brian L. Fitch, Gerald D. Ladner, Susan B. Giggins and Greg Amacker as secondary teachers at Hancock High School for the 1991-92 school year.

The board also had their photos taken for the premiere publication of the school district's quarterly magazine by Cindy Havard.

Havard also left the board members with select questions to answer so that their comments might be included in the first edition.

The board entered executive session for the discussion of personnel for over an hour and then reentered regular session with no action being taken.

because it has more water flow to aid in the dispersion of the effluent.

DEQ permits were obtained for effluent discharge by Calgon into the proposed area, limiting change in the estuary water temperature to 1.5 degrees in the summer and 4 degrees in the winter.

The temperature of the effluent (fluid waste) discharge is not limited by the DEQ permit, but the effect of that discharge upon the water is limited.

The pre-treated effluent would be mostly liquid used in the cooling process of carbon making at the plant, along with rain waters. Calgon estimates that fluid to reach a maximum of 110 degrees.

Gill stated that during the panel meeting, Calgon said concerns over the temperature of the water could be solved by instituting cooling methods.

"This," Gill said, "addresses one of the problems."

"We would now like to see some plans for use of this area should it be designated industrial."

Olsen added that the proposed corridor, a 100-foot-wide strip of land, is intended for future development.

"One day we will have to redirect a lot of the lines through one area."

Calgon, the new neighbor with the pipeline, does have other directions to consider.

They can bring the pipeline south, then west and out through the industrial park. But according to Olsen, wrapping pipes throughout the park serves only as a temporary solution.

Calgon is operating under a tight schedule with the plant's opening anticipated by the year's end. Calgon's effluent pipeline is planned to be completed by November.

Gill commented that during the Jackson meeting Calgon expressed the possibility that they would run the line elsewhere. He suggested that should Calgon re-route the pipeline, there would be no need for the land designation change.

G.E. Plastics plant manager Ken Woodring added that G.E. supported the Port and Harbor Commission in requesting the land change designation for the proposed site and will continue to pursue the land change even if Calgon chooses to take an alternate route.

Woodring confirmed his company's commitment to pursuing this alternate route rather than split the newly acquired property.

Jerry Crain with the Mississippi office of the DEQ stated that monitoring of the effluent is performed by the industries with several surprise testings by the state department throughout the year.

"There are hundreds of thousands of effluent waste sites in the country."

"It would cost a fortune to hire people to monitor every site on a daily basis."

Crain said the changing of the land designation would not mean abuse of the area, since each additional effluent line would have to individually meet specified guidelines.

Gill stated that the petition for the land designation would again be considered August 28.

Supervisors

Superintendent Terrell Randolph asked the board for a $168,141 shortfall to be paid over three years. He said the shortfall will not cause a tax increase, because the mills used to pay for it will replace the mills on a 1988 shortfall that has been paid out this year.

He also brought up the redrawing of the county school district's lines, since one board member's post is up for election this year.

The supervisors told him they would look at the redistricting proposal, which was drawn up by Gulf Regional Planning Commission, during their regular August 5 meeting.

The Mosquito Control Board asked that the county give them $10,000 toward $30,000 needed to operate for the rest of this fiscal year. Director Sue Zuhlke explained that the board has a total of $96,224.89 in anticipated expenditures through September 30, but has only $65,516.82 in available money.

She said she knows Hancock County has already given the $70,000 it promised for the year, but pointed out that if the board does not receive the needed funds from the three coastal counties, mosquito control services will have to be reduced to save the money that is left.

"The supervisors discussed the inequities of the current system for funding the Mosquito Control Board, then asked Zuhlke to bring the board's request back before the supervisors August 5."

Public defenders Nicholas (Mac) Haas and J.P. Compretta asked that their salaries be increased from $20,000 to $27,000 per year. They said the current salaries barely cover their expenses and do not pay for the time the men spend on cases.

Ronald Cuevas told the two men the supervisors would consider their request.

Signs

Bay St. Louis Mayor Edward Favre said the local ordinance regarding campaign sign placement is straightforward.

"Basically, it has two parts. The first is that signs can be put on private property with the owner's permission."

"The second is that signs can't be posted, pasted or otherwise affixed to utility poles, either can they be on public property or rights-of-way."

"Even though the ordinance doesn't specifically address it, the candidates are asked to remove their signs immediately after the elections and to help enforce the sign ordinance."

The City of Waveland does not have an ordinance specifically governing placement of signs, although Mayor Stella Priot urges candidates to remove them immediately after the election.

Summer's leisure

When the days get long...

...the beach gets crowded. Shrimp boats anchored in the Bay aren't the only thing you'll see along Beach Boulevard during these lazy summer days.

Out come the fishing poles and nets, the lounge chairs and coolers as people of all ages flock to the beach.

Some kids head out in search of local marine life samples, while others splash around in the water or build sand castles as parents watch nearby. Other folks are content to just kick back in a lounge chair and soak in the sun.

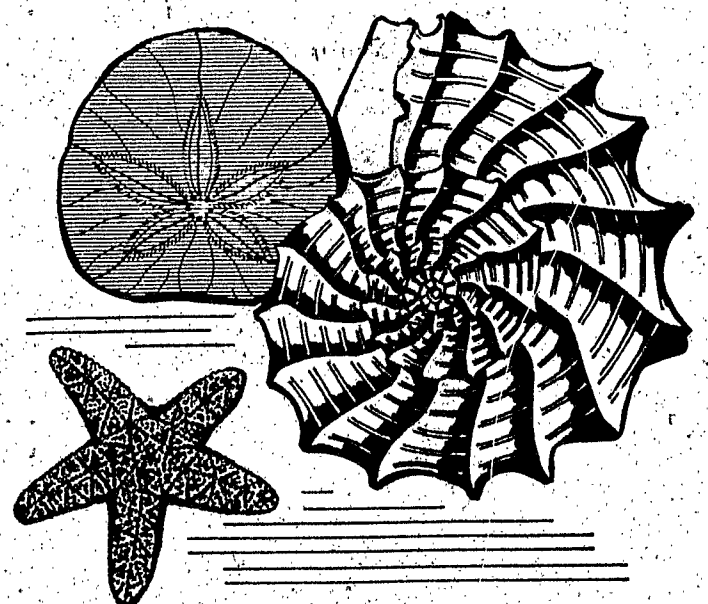

Even the local birds can't stay away from the beach — or at least, from the rocks.

Phillips-Jones

The Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church was the setting for the June 22 wedding of Cheryl Lee Jones and Charles Wayland Phillips, both of Greenville. Monsignor McGough celebrated an evening candlelight Nuptial Mass.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mitchell L. Jones of Bay St. Louis and the late Mr. Jones. The groom is the son of Billy M. Phillips Sr. of Thomaston, Ga.

Music was provided by soloist Mrs. Alan Noonan, organist Mrs. Ollie McKenna and flutist Jennifer Smith.

The buttoned back ended with a V-peplum at the waist above a full flared skirt. The hemline was bordered with venise lace and the train extended to chapel length.

The bride wore a tiara headpiece of venise lace with illusion pouf at the back above a chapel veil.

She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias, stephanotis, dendrobium orchids and sweetheart roses accented with baby's breath.

Miss Connie Milton of Denver, Colo., was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Lea Margaret McLaurin of Hollendale, Miss Becky Odine of Baton Rouge, La., Miss Nicole Clark of Holcomb, and Mrs. Paul Watson III of Greenville.

The attendants wore ankle length gowns of white bengal moire faille featuring princess bodices and scoop necklines with self bows at the shoulders. Bows accented the back waists above flared skirts.

They carried crescent bouquets of dendrobium orchids, sweetheart roses and miniature white carnations, accented with baby's breath.

Billy M. Phillips Sr., father of the groom, was the best man.

Groomsmen were David Phillips of Arcadia, Fla., brother of the groom Billy M. Phillips Jr. of Milledgeville, Ga., Matthew Loudenslager of Atlanta, Ga., and Carl Thompkins of Cummings, Ga.

Ushers were Beau Erdt of Mobile, Ala., Wayne Edwards of Greenville, Brad Smith of Knoxville, Tenn., and James Leech of Vicksburg. Reading from scripture were Brother Albert S.C., Brother Pascal S.C. and Mrs. Edgar W. Santa Cruz Jr., all of Bay St. Louis.

A reception was held at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club.

After a honeymoon trip to Oches Rios, Jamaica, the couple is making their home in Greenville, where Mr. Phillips is purchasing manager for U.S. Axminster Company and Mrs. Phillips is a reporter/anchor for WXVT-TV 15.

Pre-nuptial parties

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents following the rehearsal the eve of the wedding at Court Street Cuisine.

Other celebrations included a bridal luncheon given for the bride, bridesmaids and special guests by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Edwin E. Spears, and aunt, Mrs. O.J. Jorgensen, the day of the wedding at The Chimneys in Gulfport.

Family Arts Celebration scheduled for August 10

BY TRACI BONNEY

Get ready for something unique.

There's going to be a party in August, and everyone's invited. This celebration is unlike any festival in Hancock County.

It's the Hancock County Family Arts Celebration, and it will be held from noon to 4 p.m. Saturday, August 10, next to Pino Variety Store on Hwy. 90 across from Wal-Mart.

The celebration will include a number of performances: mime, puppets, clowns, dance and drama. There will also be several styles of live music performed by both groups and soloists.

The celebration is free to the public. The only thing that you'll need money for is the soft drinks, Domino's pizza and other refreshments.

routine, clown skit, puppet show and drama. And of course, the music.

Leaders in the different arts areas include:

James Arce, clowns — He is a member of the Illinois-based international organization No Greater Love Ministries, which relies heavily on clown skits in its work.

Terra Froman, dance — She received instruction in interpretive dance at Christian International in Point Washington, Fla.

Donna Guidry, pageantry and mime — She started her pageantry training at Hancock North Central High School, where she was rifle captain for three years, and trained in mime under Todd Farley, a graduate of the mime institute in Paris founded by Marcel Marceau.

The performances at the Family Arts Celebration will include both children and adults. Williams, who in addition to coordinating the celebration is also area coordinator of No Greater Love Ministries and a local evangelist, said the festival gives the children involved a vehicle to put their arts training to use.

The August 10 event is sponsored by Harvest Time Church in Pass Christian.

Raymond Williams, coordinator of the celebration, said its purpose is "to show the community that the whole family can be involved in the fine arts, both as viewers and participants."

"We want to show that the arts can be a viable alternative to less productive activities like getting drunk or doing drugs."

The different performances will run in one-hour cycles. This means that in the course of an hour, you can see a dance, mime

District lines decision due Friday

Franckiewicz: Interim terms for legislators is a bad idea

BY TRACI BONNEY
A panel of federal judges in Jackson said Tuesday they expect to have new state House and Senate districts settled by Friday.

This promise came after the three-judge panel was appointed to redraw 122 House and 52 Senate districts because state lawmakers were not able to come up with plans that satisfied all groups involved.

passed plans in accordance to federal law, which mandates the district lines be moved after each decade's census to accommodate population shifts.

One of the House's plans year in the Senate and House districts established in 1982, then run next year for three-year terms in permanent districts.

Aug. 10 celebration to honor Desert Storm vets

BY JANET MCQUEEN

In a show of community support for our returning troops from Operation Desert Storm, seven veterans service organizations are planning day-long welcome festivities August 10.

A parade will kick-off the event Saturday morning at 11, forming at the corner of Central and Waveland avenues in Waveland, proceed down Central to Coleman, and Coleman to American Legion Post 77.

A home-cooked feast of fried fish, jambalaya, red beans and rice and hot dogs will be prepared by local chefs, headed by John Rutherford. Live entertainment will accompany the free lunch for the veterans and their families.

Joint funding for the event will be provided by the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, the county board of supervisors, civic groups, businesses, individuals and the veterans organizations.

Among those offering assistance are the Waveland Civic Association, the Telephone Pioneers, St. Stanislaus and Lee Klein.

General chairman John Wilkinson reported the "cooperation has been great" among various groups offering to help. Other chairmen are Rutherford, food; Richard Brehm, beverages; Clayton Thompson, parade marshal; and Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, finance and publicity.

Participating veterans organizations and the contact person for each include:

—Veterans of Foreign Wars 3253, Bay St. Louis, Don Mauffray;

—Veterans of Foreign Wars 6285, Kiln, Paul Moody;

—Veterans of Foreign Wars 4805, Ansley, Kenny May;

—American Legion Post 139, Bay St. Louis, John Wilkinson;

—American Legion Post 77, Waveland, Ray Norton;

—American Legion Post 58, Standard community, Hilton Deschamps; and —Disabled American Veterans No. 50, Bay St. Louis, Norman Tartavouille.

Anyone wishing to donate time, money or products for the appreciation celebration may contact the chamber office at 467-9048, or any of the chairmen listed above. The chamber is also soliciting discounts or services for the veterans during the week following August 10.

The committee chairmen will meet Friday, August 2. For additional information, contact the chamber office or chamber president Basil Kennedy at 467-5793.
